Corporate Member product promotion:*

Corporate membership does not guarantee product promotion for corporate members. The SIA retains the right to promote member products at its full discretion. Factors considered by the SIA in determining whether products are promoted include but are not limited to:

- whether the product is considered by the SIA at its own discretion to be of an adequate quality;
- whether the product offer is considered by the SIA at its own discretion to be adequately beneficial to members; or
- any other reason the SIA determines from time to time.

Product promotions may contain disclaimers.

If membership is sought for purposes which include product promotion, it is important that prior to committing to your membership, you clarify whether your product/service may meet any requirements we may set.
